

Introducing Bradley Sawyer

BACHELOR OF ARTS HONORS (CARLETON UNIVERSITY, 1998)

GRADUATE DIPLOMA EDUCATION (ADELAIDE UNIVERSITY, 2004)

MASTER OF EDUCATIONAL STUDIES (ADELAIDE UNIVERSITY, 2007)

Bradley is a certified professional who specializes in change management and training. He has extensive experience in implementing programs for a wide variety of group sizes and backgrounds. His work comprises of delivering and implementing new programs and strategies at both the frontline and executive levels. His specialty is delivering new content using very active and engaging teaching methods in order to foster a sense of excitement while allowing the participants to develop a sense of ownership of the new information.

In 2003, Bradley moved to Adelaide to further his education. After 2 years of teaching business strategies and specialized English skills to businessmen in Japan he decided to get some formal qualifications to go with his experience.

Areas of experience

Bradley can provide support by employing and creating new training programs to help companies transition through any major or minor change.

- University level qualification with a specialization in Cognition and how humans can use technology efficiently
- Over 8 years experience creating new training programs according to the guidelines set by clients
- Group facilitation experience from the boardroom, to large conferences, to smaller groups
- Time management skills designed to work under pressure and deadlines
- Government policy writing experience